JUDGE STUART WOULD IGNORE LAW—PINKHAM

stances to the department of the interior.

"I had an inquiry made this spring of Judge Stuart as to whether he had ever visited the other islands, so I might know if he had knowledge of lands by personal observation, and he stated he had not.

"His assertion as to lands on the island of Oahu would indicate he is not personally familiar with the lands and land situated on that island even.

"The said facts as to our public lands have been stated and printed time and time again, and are within reach of everyone.

"The total arable lands belonging to the territory amount to but 59,044 acres, of which 36,776 are cane lands, 20,581 other agricultural lands, and 1688 acres rice, taro and fish ponds.

"Quite an area is solely dependent on waters other than those belonging to the territory. Most of the land is out on unexpired leases.

"I do not propose this morning to further analyze every acre Judge Stuart may imagine he knows or does not know, but if he will submit an inquiry about any specific parcel or parcels of land he will receive correct information.

"The land laws are controlled by the Organic Act.

"The act is being conformed to.

"Judge Stuart has signed a home-stated agreement and does not wish to carry out his voluntary agreement, but wishes the governor and land commissioner to consent to a course that would destroy all true homesteading and turn our lands over to speculators."

Purchase Price Refused.

When Circuit Judge T. B. Stuart, shortly after he had taken the local bench, secured lot No. 34 of the Halekon-Waikali lands near Kaneohe, Oahu, by drawing option No. 13, which was the only homestead lot left, he offered to pay the purchase price of $425 which, he declares, Land Commissioner Joshua D. Tucker refused to accept.

The complaint was filed late yesterday afternoon, after the second edition of the Star-Bulletin had gone to press.

Based, probably, on the commissioner's refusal to accept the purchase price, Judge Stuart has begun an action against the governor and the land commissioner in the form of a writ of mandamus ordering the two high officials to appear in Circuit Judge Ashford's court at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, November 20, and show cause why the land laws of the territory should not be administered according to Judge Stuart's way of thinking.

That the action of Judge Stuart will reopen the old land question in Hawaii is the opinion of many who have become interested. On the other hand, it is predicted that Judge Stuart has fired the opening gun in the Democratic campaign for the approaching territorial election, and that the Bourbons intend to make the land question once more a live issue.

"Settlement Stopped," He Says.

Judge Stuart's complaint attacks bitterly the governor's land policy, and alleges that, because of this policy, settlement in Hawaii has practically been stopped. The complaint declares that, by the policy of the governor, the requirements of Congress concerning the opening of public lands in the territory have been "each willfully violated . . . in each and every respect."

It is further alleged that "frivolous excuses" for their non-compliance with the requirements of Congress have been given by the governor and the land commissioner, one of these being that "they will not allow entry of any land until a road shall be built thereto," and also that "such lands should be held to meet the public debt."

The complaint further charges the governor and the land commissioner with "wrongfully withholding the public lands from entry," and "at the same time are shipping in foreign peon labor at heavy expense to the taxpayers; that in the last two years over 18,000 Filipinos of the lower and criminal class have been introduced into Hawaii through the personal activity of the two officials.

It is charged that "annoying, foolish, offensive, absurd and unlawful conditions" have been inserted into the homestead deeds of small settlers, while large corporations have escaped. "Hundreds of poor citizens have been deprived of and driven from their homes," declares the complaint, through "unlawful and unconstitutional acts" of Governor Pinkham and Land Commissioner Tucker.

Makes Many Demands. Judge Stuart's complaint makes the following demands of the governor and the land commissioner:

"First—Accept from petitioner the purchase price of said land, and to deliver to petitioner a patent for the land without conditions except that he shall not convey to anyone already owning 80 or more acres of land in Hawaii.

"Second—That the reservation placed in said so-called contract, name-

DROGGED TO COURT BY MISTAKE; WANTS TO KNOW WHY HE'S JAILED

While E. Santiago was spending his thirty-fourth day in jail meditating on why he was there so long, he was haled into court by mistake, an officer taking him for another man, and his appearance created a decided ripple on the surface of court calmness.

E. Santiago did not know why he was in jail so long. No one knew why he was in court. The judge insisted on finding out the status of Santiago's case, and sent for his attorney, L. M. Straus, who said that Santiago had been in jail since October 4. He previously had been out on bond, but tried to skip and was then surrendered. There was no bond on file according to the clerk of the court.

"If he had pleaded guilty he would have been fined only $5, or sentenced to six days in jail, and now he has been there 34 days," Judge Monsarrat said to Straus.

"We did not know how much you would fine him," answered Straus emphatically; "besides, it is not my affair. I was his attorney. We asked a jury trial, and Santiago was let out on bail. Then he tried to get away in a boat and his bondsmen surrendered him. We are waiting to get the case before the circuit court."

felure by the commissioner without due process of law."

Under the acts of Congress, Judge Stuart continues, both the governor and the land commissioner have been in duty bound for years to open up public lands in the territory at reasonable prices. The entryman, he adds, should not be embarrassed by "useless and absurd conditions in reference thereto, but to allow the entryman the privilege of taking said land under any form of entry including cash entry, that he may desire; that petitioner has no objection to entry papers or patent preventing the land from ever passing into the control or ownership of large land owners; but alleges that the respondents have been and now specially are authorizing the owners of such small homesteads to make contracts looking to the control of said homesteads by the large land owners."

Unless they can show cause other, wise, Judge Stuart demands that the governor and land commissioner accept from him the purchase price of his homestead in Kaneohe and issue a land patent for it without any conditions except that he shall not convey the lot to any person who already owns 80 or more acres of land in Hawaii.

Objects to Riparian Clause. He also demands that the phrase "excepting and reserving therefrom the stream and all riparian and other right in or to this stream and the waters thereof" be eliminated from the agreement.

It is further demanded that the governor and the land commissioner "immediately comply with the acts of 1910 in reference to the 25 petitioners and in reference to bringing in all said lands immediately into the market."

Attorney Lorin Andrews has been retained as counsel for Judge Stuart in the mandamus proceedings. Attorney-general H. M. Stainback and his deputies probably will represent Governor Pinkham and the land commissioner.

Governor Pinkham expects to leave for Washington, D. C., in the steamer Wilhelmina on December 1 and it is understood that Attorney Andrews will leave for the national capital a few days earlier.
